DISCLOSURE FORM

As a public employee you are held to a high standard of ethical behavior. Public trust is dependent on your avoidance of actual improprieties, as well as the appearance of improprieties.

1. All financial interests with persons or businesses doing business with the City must be disclosed, not just those affecting the department in which you work.
2. You are responsible if you acquire an outside financial interest after this form is submitted, to file a revised disclosure form immediately with the Human Resources Department that accurately and completely discloses all interests. DO NOT WAIT FOR NEXT YEAR'S FORM.
3. Disclosure forms are public information and are available upon request. For your own protection it is best to report all financial interests rather than risk the perception or fact that you have not made full disclosure.
4. If you are considering outside employment or financial arrangements with a business or person that transacts business, or has any financial dealings with the City, you should contact either the Board of Ethics or the Corporation Counsel before taking that step, in order to discuss the actual and potential ethical issues. You should be fully aware of any conflict of interest or appearance of conflict before entering into outside employment or financial arrangement.
